Our story

DataBench was originally founded in 2018 and was focused on assessing the global wave of data privacy compliance and how the world's vendor market was responding to a new global industry.

It was clear that most businesses did not fully understand their data privacy and data security programs and applications. Businesses were unaware of how data moved through their organisation and were using programs that hindered their ability to gain control over their personal data. To address the changing privacy landscape, many businesses were opting to implement manual solutions, requiring up to 6 extra staff to manage this workload. These manual solutions often fall behind on mandated timeframes and fail to meet legislation obligations.

Founder and Managing Partner David Christmas recognised the need for an automated data privacy and data security solution within the Australian and New Zealand privacy landscape. DataBench's innovative and leading automated solutions help businesses to reduce their workload while meeting their privacy compliance and data security obligations. David states "It needs to be a local Australian solution tailored for local conditions and ultimately for local companies". DataBench aims to help make privacy a priority so businesses can establish trust within their company.

Streamline Privacy Compliance and Data Security

THE POWER OF MANY TOOLS IN ONE

Full Data Mapping

Map personal data across your company to understand where your data is located across a number of platforms. With over 300 QuickLink connectors part of our automated solution, we can map both structured and unstructured data with ease.

Data Security

Gain control to protect your data at all stages and severities of security threats to your company. Our solution makes you aware of threats before they happen and gives you the tools to manage them when they happen and after they occur.

Cookie Consent & Preference Management

Our platform enables companies the ability to offer consumers flexible tools to gain control over their consent and communication preferences. Our innovative solution builds trust in your company.

Advisory

Our consultants will build a privacy strategy that takes the stress out of managing your data privacy compliance. With years of knowledge and experience backing our team, your business will be guided to meet your privacy compliance and data security goals.

Employee & HR Related Data

Gain control over internal access requests by offering opt-out mechanisms for your employees. Deliver on timely requests and build rapport within your internal network.

Loyalty Rewards Programs

Manage and track personal data collected through your loyalty rewards programs across multiple brands. Allow your customers to submit requests with ease using our user friendly portal and fulfil requests within days.

Privacy Rights Management

Our Privacy by Design approach collects and processes essential data strictly for an identified purpose. It limits potential misuse of data and ensures your company meets their privacy compliance obligations.
